MEET MANY TIMES

METHODISTS MISS BUT THREE YEARS SINCE 1816.

GATHER HERE 4 TIMES

Held Annual Sessions in Maryville in 1878, 1890, 1901 and 1914—One Secretary Ten Years.

The beginning of the Missouri annual conference of the Methodist Episcopal church here tonight recalls the annual meets of years gone by, three of which have been held in Maryville and are bright in the minds of many. In fact, the first one held here, which was in March, 1878, caused the first daily paper in Maryville to be published. However, it continued only during the conference week.

Judge I. K. Alderman was managing editor, while four Methodist ministers, one of which was the Rev. D. B. Lake, then pastor here, composed the staff of special editors. Those men each day issued a creditable four-page daily, well filled with conference news and enough advertisements to make the venture a self-supporting one. A copy of each edition is still retained by Mr. Alderman. They probably will be exhibited during the home-coming celebration in the "antique shop."

Since the Methodists of north Missouri first met in 1816, which was jointly with the Illinois conference, but three years have been skipped that annual conferences were not held. That period was from 1845 to 1848. J. W. Anderson has been secretary for the last ten years.

PLAY FIRST GAMES

NORMAL BASKET BALL TEAMS SHOW GOOD TRAINING.

ARE EVENLY MATCHED

Scores of Initial Contests Indicate Choice of Quintet to Represent School Will Be Difficult.

The first games of the Maryville Normal Basket Ball league were played last night. Four teams, the Giants, the Minks, the Allies and the Quintet, have been organized with Vandersloot, Powell, Scarlett and Quinn respectively as captains. Three games each week will be played throughout the most of this quarter.

An accurate record of the work of each man is being kept by Coach Walter Hansen, and from these records and his general impression of the players he will select the team to represent the school.

If the games of yesterday afternoon may be taken as an indication, the teams are very evenly matched. The Giants defeated the Quintet by a score of 35 to 32 and the Allies bested the Minks by a count of 25 to 27.

Coach Hansen is optimistic in regard to the Normal team for this year and says that the showing of the tournament is very good for so early in the season.

The next tournament games will be played tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock when the Allies and the Giants and the Quintet and the Minks meet.

The line-ups of the teams are as follows: Minks, Powell, captain; Ford, Leech, Miller, Woodward and Payne. The Quintet: Quinn, captain; Scott, Brittain, Clayton, Lyle and Sawyers. The Allies: Scarlett, captain; Seymour, Gooden, Wells, Ryan and Robey. The Giants: Vandersloot, captain; Hamm Neal, Livengood and Neff. One is to be supplied.

No admission is to be charged to the games.

TRY FAIRFAX MAN

DECLARE ARTHUR CARTER CAUSE OF FARMER'S DEATH.

ALLEGE CAR HIT WOOD

Say Racer Threw Barnard Resident Beneath Own Wagon—Dispose of Three Civil Suits.

Arthur Carter, of Fairfax, charged with fourth degree manslaughter, was placed on trial in circuit court this morning before a jury. The selection of a jury and explanation to jurors by opposing counsel, were completed this morning. The submission of testimony was begun immediately after court convened this afternoon.

Carter is alleged to have caused the death of Charles Wood, a farmer who lived near Barnard on April 27. Two days prior to Wood's death, a racing type automobile driven by Carter is said to have thrown Wood against the rear wheel of Wood's wagon, inflicting injuries from which he died.

With his eleven-year-old son, Harry, Wood was driving into Barnard with a loaded wagon. Just before reaching the city limits, Wood is said to have alighted and walked at the right side of the wagon, while the team pulled the vehicle up a steep hill. Two cars being driven westward, in the opposite direction to which Wood was going came over the hill at that moment. The first one was driven by George Zancker, and the one following, by Carter. Both are said to have passed Wood on the wrong side of the road, or the one on which Wood was walking.

The right front wheel of Carter's racer is said to have struck Wood, throwing him before the right, rear wagon wheel, inflicting the fatal injuries. The state claims Carter was guilty of negligence for two reasons—for driving at a tremendous speed, and for passing on the wrong side of a highway.

The Carter jury is composed of W. V. Smith, Frank Cole, Frank Fitz, William Messbargar, Clem Myers, Thomas Cunningham, L. A. Nye, Edward Shreve, Joseph Holker, John Manorgan and Fred Rogers.

The case is expected to go to the jury late this afternoon or tonight.

Two suits for collection on promissory notes brought by George Cassel against J. H. Holbrook, Ida B. Holbrook and P. F. Holbrook, were dismissed this morning.

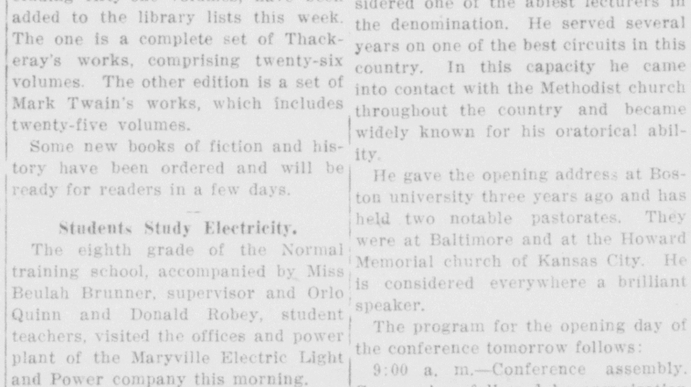
First Methodist Church, Built in 1819



McKendree Chapel, Where Initial Missouri Conference Was Held.

The first Methodist church ever built in Missouri was a log structure erected in Cape Girardeau county, near Jackson, in 1819. It was named in honor of William McKendree, the first native born Methodist bishop. He had been an officer in the revolutionary army and was present at the surrender of Cornwallis.

The Missouri district was formed in 1814 with 804 members, and two years later the general conference in Baltimore established the Missouri conference. Its boundaries, to quote Bishop Hendrix, were "on the north by the Ohio conference, on the east by the Ohio and Mississippi rivers, on the south by the Arkansas river, and on the west by the Day of Judgment."

The first session of the conference to be held in the McKendree chapel was in September, 1819, with Bishop George presiding. Other conferences were held there in October, 1821, September, 1826, and September, 1831.

Methodist Pastor is Conference Host

THE REV. GILBERT S. COX.

The 250 or more delegates to the Missouri annual conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, which convenes here tomorrow, will be welcomed and entertained largely under the direction of the Rev. Gilbert S. Cox, pastor for the last two years of the First Methodist church. It is the first time within thirteen years that the conference has been held here, and the visitors will see many improvements. It will be Pastor Cox's first opportunity to entertain a conference of such size.

Mr. Cox came to the Maryville pastorate in October, 1912, from Rock Port, where he was pastor of the Methodist church two years previous. Since his coming here the church congregation has been built up to very creditable proportions and the finances of the church placed on a solid rock basis.

Mr. Cox is but 34 years old, yet he has held pastorates for the last eleven years in Kansas and Missouri and Massachusetts.

He was born at Oak Grove, December 12, 1880. Attended public school at Oak Grove and Kansas City Central high school. Graduated from Baker university, Baldwin, Kan., in 1906, with the degree of A. B.; graduated in voice from the Baker university conservatory of music in 1906; graduated from School of Theology, Boston university, in 1909, S. T. B., and had one year of post-graduate work in literature and philosophy.

His pastoral record follows: South Kansas conference, LeLoup 1903, Quenemo 1904. New England conference. Millbury, Mass., 1907-1909; Norwood, Mass., 1909-1910. Missouri conference: Rock Port 1910-1911, Maryville 1912.

GRAHAM BOYS WIN BIG CREDITS.

Admitted to Medical College of Harvard—Three Students Successful.

Two Graham boys, Eldon and William Findley, who have just entered the medical college of Harvard university at Cambridge, Mass., made an enviable entry record when they were admitted into the junior year course. Both young men have been students at the Missouri state university, taking the two-year medical course which that college gives. This credit alone does not admit a student into the junior year at Harvard, and the Findley boys, in company with nine other Missouri university students, took the examination for admittance. Of the eleven students three made the required credits. The Findley boys are the sons of Dr and Mrs. J. W. Findley of Graham.

ARRESTED AS A SPY

Boston Minister Held Prisoner by Germans Is Released.

London, Oct. 6.—Rev. Albert A. Williams of Boston has reached London after arrest and imprisonment in Brussels, at the hands of the Germans on charges of being an English spy and with trying to buy information concerning the movement of German troops.

Notes made by Mr. Williams in a French dictionary for a sermon on the horrors of war fell into the hands of the Germans when he was arrested. A German lieutenant thought they constituted code messages because of the abbreviated form in which they had been put down. Mr. Williams was arrested at the Metropole hotel in Brussels, and taken to the German military headquarters. He was held along with thirty other prisoners, mostly Belgians, and put through a very drastic examination. He was not permitted to communicate with Brand Whitlock, the American minister in Brussels. Finally he persuaded a German student that he was not a spy and he managed to get a letter to Mr. Whitlock, who brought about his release.

TO WEAR COTTON DRESSES

Resolution to Be Introduced at Meeting of D. A. R. at Washington.

Washington, Oct. 6.—At a meeting of the national board of the Daughters of the American Revolution in this city tomorrow a resolution will be introduced favoring the wearing of cotton dresses by all members of the D. A. R. in the United States.

The idea of the resolution is to set on foot a movement among the members looking to a greater consumption of cotton goods in an effort to relieve the stringent situation in the south, due to the lack of a market for cotton caused by the European war.

Japanese Land on Island of Germany.

Tokyo, Oct. 6.—The navy department issued the following statement: "The Japanese squadron delegated to destroy the German fleet in the South seas has landed bluejackets on Jaluit island, the seat of government of the Marshall archipelago, which was annexed by Germany in 1886. It is believed the German base was destroyed and that the fortifications, arms and ammunition were seized. There was no resistance to the Japanese."

Get a 10-cent box now.

Turn the rascals out—the headache, biliousness, indigestion, the sick, sour stomach and bad colds—turn them out tonight and keep them out with Cascarets.

Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then and never know the misery caused by a lazy liver, clogged bowels, or an upset stomach.

Don't put in another day of distress. Let Cascarets cleanse your stomach; remove the sour, fermenting food; take the excess bile from your liver and carry out all the constipated waste matter and poison in the bowels. Then you will feel great.

A Cascaret tonight straightens you out by morning. They work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from any drug store means a clear head, sweet stomach and clean, healthy liver and bowel action for months. Children love Cascarets because they never gripe or sicken.

GRAND OPERA STAR ON LYCEUM STAGE

MADAME SCOTNEY.

IN presenting Mme. Evelyn Scotney and Assisting Artists the local Lyceum committee is making what is unquestionably the greatest Lyceum offering of the year. Mme. Scotney is making her Lyceum tour by permission of the Boston Opera Company, for whom this great Australian prima donna has for the past two seasons been singing leading roles at the Boston Opera House. Her Lyceum concert tour last year, under the Affiliated Bureaus' direction, was a continual ovation. As last season, her assisting artists are all stars: Mr. Howard White, basso cantante, of the Boston Opera Company, who shared honors with Mme. Scotney in many places last season; Mr. Eric Hayne, violin virtuoso, with the Boston Symphony Orchestra; Mr. Harold Proctor, famous pianist, and assistant conductor of the Boston Opera Company.

Of Mme. Scotney's wonderful singing many comments of the critical press might be given. "Evelyn Scotney Carries Off Honors" is the headline over a highly commendatory article in Musical America, reporting the opening performance of "Tales of Hoffman," at the Boston Opera House last season, voicing in brief the almost universal verdict of expert criticism wherever she has appeared.

In beginning its second year's study the Maryville chapter practically doubles its membership. It was organized in October, 1912, with twenty-four members and now has forty-four. The program as arranged for this year is devoted to the study of the history of the colonial period of the United States.

The year books are finished in blue and white, the cover bearing the insignia of the order and name of the local chapter. The program is led with an imprint of a flag and the salute to the flag of the national organization.

The November meeting will be a colonial Thanksgiving and a study of Thanksgiving customs. The December afternoon is called "A Century of Dress." December 18 the chapter will be addressed by William Bruce Leffingwell, author, traveler and lecturer.

The January meeting is the annual midwinter business session, and at this time an interesting feature will be the choosing of delegates to the continental congress. Washington's birthday anniversary, on February 22, will be observed by a silver tea. At the March meeting, history of the time of witchcraft will be studied, and in April the organization of the order will be taken up.

BURNS COAL SMOKE GAS SOOT

That's what the Improved King Bee Air Blast does for you. It not only burns the coal—but the smoke, the soot—and consumes all the gases, as well. By the combination of the down draft tube, the gas burning air belt and the direct draft in the ash pit door, every particle of coal, as well as the smoke, gas and soot, is consumed and turned into HEAT for you.

THE IMPROVED

is an air-tight stove, but is unlike any other air-tight on the market.

The Puff Preventor in the feed door does away absolutely with all dangers of explosions. There is no danger even when the fire is covered with fine soft coal slack. That's a claim that cannot be made for any other air tight in existence.

Machine fitted ash pit door, door frame, drafts and air-tight mounting throughout make a wonderful fire keeper and hold combustion under perfect control.

The Improved King Bee has an exposed fire pot which outlasts a dozen encased pots and gives tenfold better results. The heat deflecting ring at the top of the fire pot, forces all the heat directly to the floor FIRST, making a powerful base heater, equal to a hard coal base burner.

Our Anti-Buckling Ring is the only practical way of mounting air-tight stoves to obtain the greatest amount of heat and durability.

IT is Air-Tight, Fire Proof and Cannot Warp or Buckle.

In ordinary air-tight stoves the drum is riveted directly on to the fire pot. This causes a leaky stove. The drum breaks away from the pot, retarding combustion and making heating practically impossible.

No such methods are used in making the Improved King Bee Air Blast.

On the Improved King Bee Air Blast the Anti-Buckling Ring is bolted on to the fire pot—not the drum. The steel drum is driven down over the Anti-Buckling Ring and therefor does not come in contact with the fire. The steel drum is securely held in place by cement and the rigid cast iron fire pot ring on the outside of the stove. Your hardware dealer can explain this excellent feature thoroughly.

There are thousands of King Bee Air Blasts in use throughout the middle west. And your neighbor can give you many more reasons why YOU should have one. Talk it over with your dealer. See the Improved King Bee Air Blast at his store before you buy.

WHAT RAILROADS DO WITH THEIR INCOME

The Largest Employers of Labor, Buyers of Steel, Coal, Taxpayers in the Country.

In the beginning of the present article on the railroad situation it is pertinent to remind the reader that the transportation companies and the public face each other under radically changed conditions today from those which prevailed a few years ago. On the one hand, the Inter-State Commerce Commission and the different states, either through their Public Service Commissions or Legislatures say what rates the railroads shall charge for service. On the other hand, the proposal made in the present Congress that the Inter-State Commerce Commission be empowered to pass upon all new railroad securities before they can be placed upon the market and like powers having already been conferred within the states upon the different Public Service Commissions, means that the last vestige of control over their finances will have been taken away from the railroads, and that henceforth their fate lies absolutely in the hollow of the people's hands.

Furthermore, it must be said for the stockholders and the managers of the roads that they have no protest to offer against this stringent governmental regulation. The only plea they make is that the value of their securities be not destroyed and that they be permitted to receive living rates so they may continue to render efficient and adequate service to the people. The proposal to submit all new securities to official investigation before they are placed upon the market, if fairly interpreted and exercised, will have the approval of nine out of ten railroad officials throughout the country. In view of these changed conditions therefore and the fact that the people have taken over the entire control and regulation of the railroads, why should they not be so fair to them as they are to all other great National industries? That they will be, once they come to understand the true situation, is the confident belief of those entrusted with the responsibility of railroad management and those who have put their money into these huge properties. The attempt upon the part of certain political opportunities to create the impression in the public mind that the railroads represent some great sinister influence in the Nation is utterly absurd. With several million investors, large and small, owning the transportation companies, with nearly two million employees working for them and with scores of millions traveling and shipping freight over them, the railroads constitute the most Democratic as well as gigantic institution in the Country today—an industry owned by the people, operated by the people, and controlled and regulated by the people and intensely essential to the comfort, convenience and prosperity of our entire population.

In last week's article the grave crisis which confronts the railroads because of the European War which has indefinitely closed the foreign money markets to them was briefly explained. The fact was also cited that American railroads are not owned by a few rich men as many have thoughtlessly come to believe—that on the contrary, 95 per cent of their ownership is in the hands of hundreds of thousands of stockholders large and small; furthermore that all the old line life insurance companies, hundreds of savings and other banks, benevolent institutions, etc., have many millions of their assets invested in railroad bonds, and that therefore millions of holders of life insurance policies and bank depositors are vitally concerned in preserving the full value of these securities which have always been regarded as the greatest and soundest basic investment in the Nation.

Where Railroad Receipts Go

We now wish to briefly analyze what the railroads do with the money which they collect for carrying freight and passengers in order that the reader may realize what a tremendous factor they are in every day business life and prosperity of the country. Just as the idea has prevailed in the minds of many that the railroads are owned by a handful of rich men, so the thought has also found deep root that they collect millions of dollars from the public which goes into the coffers of the few and which is permanently removed from the thrift and industry of the people.

At the end of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1913, the records at Washington show that the railroads of the United States had collected a gross income from all branches of their service amounting to $3,118,929,318. Of this sum, $1,373,830,589. was paid out for labor—or, to put it in another way, almost 50 cents out of every dollar they took in was immediately paid out to the hundreds of thousands of men and women whom they employ in the conduct of their business. For maintenance of way, equipment, depots, etc., they disbursed $929,167,491.—or almost another billion dollars and in this vast item the reader can grasp what railroad prosperity means to the great steel mills, the lumber and coal industry, the big car and locomotive building concerns and other sources of railroad supplies. In taxes they paid out the enormous sum of $129,052,922. which helped to maintain the public schools, public highways and other revenue expenses of every state, county and incorporated town and city in the country. After paying their operating expenses, the interest on their funded debt and dividends on their stock, which averaged only 4.28 per cent, the railways had left in 1913 a balance of $183,705,547 with which to make improvements and to use as a surplus fund for emergencies of one kind and another.

In other words, after the railroads got through paying for their labor, steel, lumber, coal, interest, dividends and other necessary expenses the above $183,705,547 was all the surplus they had left for themselves out of an income of more than three billion dollars—and this too, upon properties worth the gigantic sum of twenty billion dollars. Thus it can be seen that on the basis of the present rates the railroads pay back to the public in one way or another practically every dollar they receive for service. As we stated in the previous article, the operating income of the railroads for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1914 was $120,000,000 less than for 1913—while expenses and taxes were $76,000,000 greater. It can therefore be seen at a glance that unless the railroads are given some increase in rates in the very near future the time when many of them will go upon the rocks of financial ruin is not far off—and yet the slight increase necessary to save them is so small that the average citizen would not be conscious of it after it had gone into effect. In a future article this question will be more fully discussed.

A Barometer of Prosperity.

It is an old saying that when the railroads are prosperous everybody is prosperous—and the manner in which their income is disbursed, as above explained tells the reason why. In short for years they have been regarded as the great business barometer of the Nation. No other industry in the country employs so many men as do the railroads—and furthermore it is a high grade of labor employed upon as lucrative a basis as obtains in any other large industry. When times are good nearly two million people, first and last, derive their living from the railroads—and when this vast army is working full time and is contented the millions they pay out for merchandise and for living necessities produced on the farm cannot help but have a tremendous effect upon the Commerce and Agriculture of the country.

But this is only half the story. Aside from the nearly two million operatives directly employed upon the railroads in normal times, the hundreds of thousands of men who work in the great steel mills, the coal mines, the lumber industry and in the big car and locomotive shops are equally vitally affected—for when the railroads are making extensive improvements and buying heavily of these supplies it means that these great industries are running full blast while when the railroads are subsisting only upon absolute necessities it means that many of them are only working half shift.

Why Men Are Idle.

Every man who reads the newspapers knows that our large cities have been crowded with idle men for a number of years. This has not been due so much to politics but rather that we have been passing through one of the most marked business depressions in the history of the country—a period of readjustment in the industrial world in which a groping after sound economic policies, bad crops, etc., have all played their part. That much of the troubled situation in the labor world however has been due to the fact that the railroads have been and are now facing the most crucial period in their history is so true that extended argument is superfluous. Struggling against an ever increasing cost of labor, operation and supplies and an ever diminishing net income they have had to economize in every direction and in the frantic endeavor to keep their heads above water they have been forced to discontinue hundreds of trains, to cut the forces working in their myriad railroad shops and thus dispense with many thousands of former employees. In like manner, cutting down the purchases of steel, lumber, coal, new cars and locomotives has likewise affected the payrolls of these industries—and hence the army of unemployed which for some years has been haunting every city in the land.

The Farmer Vitally Concerned

That the farmer has a very vital and personal interest in this situation should be apparent at a glance. When the millions of laboring men in the United States are profitably employed and when all our great industrial enterprises are running full shift, it means that he will have a larger demand and receive a higher price for the things he produces on his farm—for his corn, wheat, pork, beef, mutton, cotton, wool and other farm products. In other words, so inter-dependent have we become, and so closely allied are the interests of the farmer, the merchant, the manufacturer, the laborer and every other great National industry that the prosperity of one has become the prosperity of all. When times are good, the railroads spend around $500,000,000 a year for betterments, extensions and new lines—and this expenditure always opens up a market for thousands of mules used in heavy construction work.

Another fact which the average man doesn't take into consideration is the effect of drouths and crop failures on the railroads. While admitting off hand that these things hurt the farmer, merchant and manufacturer, he forgets that when the farmer doesn't produce big crops and ship lots of live stock these things cut a big hole in the receipts of the transportation companies—forcing them to run trains that are only half loaded while thousands of empty box cars stand idle on the side tracks. During the last four years Missouri and the Corn Belt generally has had three severe drouths and the railroads possessed no magic power which enabled them to escape their full share of the resulting consequences. They bear no charmed life which places them above the inexorable law of cause and effect—no necromancer's art which changes dross into gold or a deficit into a surplus. Well might they exclaim with Shylock in his pathetic defense of the Jew, "If you prick us, do we not bleed. If you tickle us do we not laugh? If you poison us, do we not die?" Adv. (To be continued next week.)
